Appendix F – Threatened, Endangered and Sensitive Species

The Ottawa National Forest (the Ottawa) provides habitat for native and desirable non-native plants and animals as mandated by the National Forest Management Act (NFMA). Accordingly, the Ottawa will provide habitat for species listed by the USDI Fish and Wildlife Service as Threatened or Endangered under the Endangered Species Act and for Regional Forester's Sensitive Species that occur within the Ottawa's boundary.

Because federally listed and Regional Forester's Sensitive Species may periodically change, contact the Forest Service or visit the USDA Forest Service, Eastern Region website at http://www.fs.fed.us/r9/wildlife/tes (as of February 2005) to obtain the most current information on species status.
