OPPORTUNITY TO COMMENT
EAST OHMER CREEK RESTORATION PROJECT

The Forest Service, Tongass National Forest, Petersburg Ranger District, is proposing to implement stream and floodplain restoration on approximately 0.2 miles of East Ohmer Creek and 0.4 miles of Lumpy Creek, one of its tributaries. Both are anadromous fish streams in the Ohmer Creek watershed on Mitkof Island near Petersburg, Alaska. The proposal is to rehabilitate stream habitat and floodplain condition through strategic placements of logs, whole trees (rootwads attached), rootwad stumps, tree tops, and topsoil. Two previously constructed rearing ponds would be maintained with one reconnected to the stream. Trash in the floodplain would be removed.

See the link at http://www.fs.usda.gov/project/?project=46654 for more information including the Draft Environmental Assessment.

The proposed action description and other information are available for review at the Petersburg Ranger District. Additional information regarding this action can be obtained from:
