

Areas of the Iditarod trail that are closed to motorized use should remain closed. There are so few areas closed, if these areas are now opened it would significantly reduce the quiet areas in this region. The claim of traditional use is not going to hold water because the trail has never been used to transport by snowmobile and four wheeler, they did not exist last time the trail was in use. Also these sections of trail are not used as transportation corridors between villages and home sites.

Please keep these areas quiet.

Jim Janssen