

TRAILS
SUPERSTITION WILDERNESS

There is a network of some 170 miles of “system” trails serving the Superstition Wilderness Area and contiguous areas. Their condition varies from satisfactory to very poor. All trails are closed to motor vehicles and mechanical transport such as bikes.

Use a great deal of caution when traveling on backcountry trails such as this one and be aware of the risks you assume.

A few brief comments are in order about the following trail:

Terrapin Trail 234: 2.9 miles long. An interesting trail on the east side of Weaver’s Needle. Portions are steep, eroded and difficult to follow. Elevation: 2,610 - 3,410 feet. Termini: Trail 235, and Trail 104.
