

How to Get Help

When you call or visit a National Forest office or visitor center, or contact a Forest Service employee in the outdoors, tell the Forest Service employee the language you need.

The employee will call an interpretation specialist.

The Forest Service

is committed to providing equal access to services, programs, and activities to persons with Limited English Proficiency. The Forest Service wants to be an effective public servant and to foster a connection to the land among all persons we serve.

For more information:

The Forest Service is your partner in providing equal opportunity to the public. For more information, please contact your local Forest Service Rangelands Program Administrator.

www.fs.fed.us

United States Department of Agriculture

I speak:

- ☒ SPANISH
- ☒ VIETNAMESE
- ☒ RUSSIAN
- ☒ CANTONESE
- ☒ JAPANESE

and 50 Other Languages!

Interpretive Services

Available To the Public in Oregon and Washington

Forest Service

| 2017

You have a right to enjoy public lands.

The Forest Service has contracted to provide language assistance services in Oregon and Washington, including:

- Telephone interpretation service 24 hours a day, 7 days a week
- Document translation services
- In-person interpretation services

Free Interpretive Assistance

The U.S. Forest Service in Oregon and Washington can now provide oral interpretive services anytime of the day or night (24/7), for approximately 50 languages.

These services are free to the public. They can be provided in person or over the phone when dealing with a Forest Service representative where phone service is available.

Get help with:

- Directions
- Hiking/trail information
- Activities like camping, boating, and fishing
- Gathering forest products like Christmas trees, firewood, mushrooms, and other vegetation

