

Know Before You Go

Plan ahead and prepare:

- Be familiar with rules and regulations for dispersed camping on the Rio Grande National Forest.
- Be prepared with supplies and equipment.
- A Rio Grande National Forest visitor map can be useful for information regarding the main roads, private land, trails, landmarks and other features. Maps may be purchased at sjma.org/shop.

Travel and choosing a campsite:

- Motorized travel is allowed only on authorized roads and trails. Obtain a Motor Vehicle Use Map from any of the offices or online for more information on roads and motorized trails.
- Look for an area that has already been impacted, like an already established dispersed camping site, to avoid further damaging soils and vegetation.
- Camp on durable surfaces, like sand or gravel.
- Camp at least 150 feet from water sources.
- All vehicles must stay within 300 feet of a designated road.
- Camping is limited to 14 days, in any 30 day period, on the Rio Grande National Forest.
- Roads may be closed for seasonal road closures and special orders.

Dispose of waste properly:

- Pack out all of your trash.
- For your toilet needs, dig a 6-8 inch pit at least 150 feet from water and cover the pit with soil before you leave.
- Always dump sewage from trailers and motorhomes at designated dump stations, not on the ground.
- Do not use soap or wash dishes or clothing in streams or lakes.

Know Before You Go Cont.

Leave what you find:

- Take pictures, so others can enjoy the rocks, plants, and archaeological objects.
- Artifacts are protected under the Antiquities Act.

Be responsible with fire:

- Always check for fire restrictions.
- Use existing fire rings where available.
- Consider using a camp stove instead of building a fire.
- Create your fire in an area that is free of flammable vegetation.
- Never leave your campfire unattended.
- Make sure to put the fire out completely before leaving the campsite or going to bed. Pour water on the fire and stir the ashes until they are cool to the touch. If it's too hot to touch, it's too hot to leave.
- Do not park over dry grass.
- Extinguish and dispose of cigarette butts safely.

Respect Wildlife:

- Don't feed, interact with, or disturb wildlife.
- Be aware that black bears are in this area.
- Store food, cooking utensils, and trash properly with bear-resistant containers or inside a hard-sided vehicle or camper. You can also hang food and trash at least 10 feet off the ground and 4 feet from the tree trunk.

Respect other visitors and neighbors:

- Minimize noise, be nice, and say hi!
- Respect private landowners and don't trespass on private property.
