What is a Hoosier?

We are! Here on the only Forest named for the people of the state in which it is located, we pride ourselves on service to our communities and in stewarding this land and these resources for all the American people for generations to come.

Working for the Hoosier:

South-central Indiana is almost certainly not what you're expecting. With rolling, forested hillsides, a richness of cave and karst resources, historic sites, awe inspiring trails and top notch camping opportunities this National Forest is a hidden and little known treasure of the system. Hoosier employees have a long history of camaraderie and cohesive working relationships leading to a highly productive, rewarding and enjoyable working atmosphere where you'll be surrounded by dedicated and passionate people. As a small Forest, opportunities abound to gain exposure to the diversity of work and opportunities that the US Forest Service presents to its employees. The Hoosier workforce is a great mix of employees who have been on this Forest many years and have a deep knowledge of the area and its history and those that have experiences drawn from all parts of the country.

Working on the Hoosier can be a gateway to opportunities with the Forest Service anywhere in America, or an introduction to a place you'll fall in love with and want to stay for many years.

Quality of life in southern Indiana is enjoyable and affordable. Whether you prefer small towns, a remote setting, or a larger more vibrant city with a major University and all the culture, entertainment, sports and restaurants that comes with such a setting; working for the Hoosier you have choices, with towns of various sizes within a reasonable commuting distance.

Love Outdoor Activities? Besides the hundreds of miles of trails, excellent campgrounds, multiple lakes for boating and fishing and other recreation activities on the Hoosier National Forest, Indiana has a diverse array of State Parks and Forests which complement those of the Forest Service. You can even find a downhill ski resort in Paoli and nationally recognized mountain biking trails in and around Brown County.

Like Sports? Location doesn't get any better than this if you like sports of all kinds. Big Ten and ACC college athletics of all types can be found nearby at Indiana University and the University of Louisville. Indianapolis is a short drive away, home of the NFL's Colts and NBA's Pacers as well as the Indy 500, the Brickyard 400, and a Triple A minor league baseball. Major League Baseball is only a little further in Cincinnati.

Music, Theater, Comedy, Gaming and more? Indiana University is home to the premier music school in the country, offering public performance of all genres, plays, operas and ballet. The college town of Bloomington draws national and international performers of all kinds year-round on par with larger cities but without a need to fight traffic to access any of it and has a vibrant international restaurant scene. French Lick is home to a large casino and PGA golf course, and the adjacent West Baden Springs hotel offers a luxury hotel and spa. The area is home to a growing number of excellent breweries and wineries as well.

Forestry Technician Position and Responsibilities:

The position will be based in Tell City, IN and will report to the forest's Timber Management Assistant. The Forest prepares and sells 7,000 to 10,000 ccf annually. Silvicultural treatments include a diverse mix of even-aged and uneven-aged central hardwoods and pine management. This position is mostly field oriented and will require outside work in all types of weather.

Applies silvicultural prescriptions and marking guides to designate timber harvest. Lays out boundaries of cutting areas as outlined in the NEPA, considering variables such as accessibility, steep slopes, stream protection, nesting tree protection, wildlife impacts, fuels management and regeneration requirements. Is able to follow clear direction given by supervisor or other senior personnel and implement it efficiently, producing high quality outcomes that meet Regional standards. Conducts timber cruises, stand exams and stocking surveys. Summarizes data and prepares reports and topographic maps indicating quantity of timber, condition of area, difficulties to be encountered, etc. Monitors and inspects for compliance stand improvement, tree planting and other contracts.

Participates as assigned to assist in other areas of natural resource management including recreation, wildlife, botany, heritage, fire and engineering.

Desired skills include:

- Ability to identify central hardwoods tree species
- Experience in timber sale layout, marking, cruising and harvesting systems
- Experience with GPS systems and software
- Experience in cruise design
- Ability to work independently as well as within a team setting
- Strong communication skills and ability to take detailed notes.

Description of the Forest:

The Hoosier National Forest encompasses over 203,000 acres in South Central Indiana stretching south from Bloomington to the Ohio River and is located within a drive of two hours or less from Cincinnati, Ohio; Evansville and Indianapolis, Indiana; and Louisville, Kentucky. Two ranger districts include the Brownstown District in Bedford, Indiana and the Tell City District in Tell City, Indiana.

The Hoosier National Forest sits in the hills of Southern Indiana. The Forest provides a range of opportunities and resources for people to enjoy. The many recreation opportunities including camping, fishing, hiking, horseback riding, hunting, mountain bike riding, and viewing scenery. The only congressionally designated wilderness in Indiana, the 13,000 acre Charles C. Deam Wilderness provides opportunities for users desiring higher levels of solitude. In addition the Forest has over 265 miles of trails for hiking, biking, or horseback riding.

The Hoosier works to provide integrated resource management on the complex mosaic that make up National Forest System Lands in Indiana. Only 31% of the land within the Forest Boundary is National Forest System land, this scattered ownership pattern adds a complexity to the management of this valued natural resource. Forest managers are responsible for protection of some very unique resources. The Hoosier is located in an area rich in caves and karst features. These underground features are largely unknown to most Forest visitors but are home to many species that are specific to these habitats.

The Hoosier has four endangered species: the fanshell and rough pigtoe mussels reside in rivers to the south; the gray and Indiana bats and their habitat occur throughout the Forest. The wildlife program on the Forest focuses on management to provide habitat for the species above as well and other species that occur throughout the area.

The Forest works to maintain and restore sustainable ecosystems. The vegetation management on the forest focuses on promoting native oak and hickory regeneration, reducing nonnative pine planted to restore over farmed lands, and reducing nonnative invasive plant and animal species.

The Hoosier National Forest organization is non-traditional with emphasis on placing resource specialists closer to the ground. Certain Forest-level staff functions that traditionally reside in a Supervisor's Office work in a team environment and serve as District-level program managers. This serves to broaden District interdisciplinary teams and improve technology transfer, customer service, and quality of stewardship. We view the Districts as the backbone of the Forest Service organization and emphasize customer service at that level. Additional information and an orientation video of the Forest may be found at <http://www.fs.fed.us/r9/hoosier>.

Tell City Office

The Tell City Ranger District Office is located in Tell City in Perry County. Located on the banks of the Ohio River, Tell City was founded in 1858 by the Swiss Colonization Society for Swiss and German immigrants. Settlement occurred early due to the cities proximity to the Ohio River. Community development was directly related to river travel. The city recognizes it's Swiss and German heritage each August at the annual Schweizer Fest. Perry County has a population of approximately 18,900 people, with an estimated 7,500 in Tell City. The area observes central time zone.
