OBSTACLE COURSE

My name is Jeremy Vasquez. I am 11 years old. I would like to eventually see an obstacle course built by the National Forest Service. It may involve cutting down trees though. Despite that trees help us breath, cutting down a few trees would be worth it. Besides, I only want to take out very few trees and it will only take up a small portion of land.

An obstacle coarse would be a great place for friends and family to have a good time together. So, why note build one? A great place to construct would be Coffman Cove. You should build in Coffman Cove because Whale Pass has many residents who don't want Whale Pass to develop, yet. Coffman Cove is already developing, so why not build something that Coffman Cove, Naukati Bay, Whale Pass, and all of the island can enjoy.

There would be some cons for this task. Cutting down trees could be harmful to animal's habitats. We should build this park for the following reasons. When kids are active, it builds creativity, helps with problem solving, and it provokes leadership skills. If we built this Obstacle Corse, not only would it be fun for the adults to watch their kids play, but it would help children be active, creative, be problem solvers, and become leaders for tomorrow.

I hope I persuaded you to build this place for people to enjoy for years to come.
