Subject: I support a ban on feral hog hunting in the Mark Twain National Forest

Dear Forest Supervisor,

I support a ban on feral hog hunting in the Mark Twain National Forest.

The elimination of feral hogs is an essential step in the conservation of our public lands and would ease the enormous financial burden this invasive species puts on Missouri farmers and other private landowners. Those involved in meeting this goal overwhelmingly support a ban on feral hog hunting. Enacting this ban in the Mark Twain National Forest is a very sensible action to take.

Sincerely,

Dear Forest Supervisor,

I support a ban on feral hog hunting in the Mark Twain National Forest.

The elimination of feral hogs is an essential step in the conservation of our public lands and would ease the enormous financial burden this invasive species puts on Missouri farmers and other private landowners. Those involved in meeting this goal overwhelmingly support a ban on feral hog hunting. Enacting this ban in the Mark Twain National Forest is a very sensible action to take.

Sincerely,

Go with the Mark Twain plan.

Hogs are an invasive species introduced to the environment by "blood-sport" idiots.

Conservation is first.

Entertainment by killing animals shouldn't even be on the list.

Feral hogs cause considerable damage to farmers and landowners. They also compete with native species. Trapping has been shown to be the best way to control this invasive species.

I am writing in petition to protect the hunting of feral hogs in Mark Twain National Park. I have seen the damage feral hogs cause. Traps alone dont work near as well as traps along with hunting them by individual citizens. You have experienced hunters who want to help. Why would you ignore that to cost the tax payers even more money and cause millions of damage for farmers? It makes sense to utilize every possible means to destroy these pests before their populations grow even more. Individual hunters are willing. Use them along with traps and other methods to eradicate feral hogs. Don't ban hog hunting in Mark Twain.

I serve on the Board of Directors of the L-A-D Foundation which is responsible for the management of Pioneer Forest, a private forest of approximately 145,000 acres. The L-A-D Board has adopted a resolution prohibiting hog hunting on Pioneer Forest land because of the highly detrimental effects of hog hunting. Pioneer is adjacent to the Mark Twain, and the hunting of hogs on the Mark Twain will endanger the health of not only the Mark Twain, but also that of forests land owned by Pioneer, the State of Missouri, and other private and public land owners. IT SHOULD BE PROHIBITED ON THE MARK TWAIN, and for that matter throughout Missouri!

Even experienced hog hunters know that entire family units must be caught and destroyed together to control populations. This is yet another example of a tiny but vocal minority trying to usurp public lands for their own benefit. Wild hogs do not belong here period. End of discussion. I do not believe that you are making the right decision by closing the National Forest to hog hunting. There is too much forest property for the hogs to hide in and the Forest Service and The MODC does not have the time or manpower to catch all of the hogs that they need to keep them under control. We need to work together to kill all of these hogs by any means available. I own a farm in Southwest Wayne County and the National Forest joins it on 3 sides. I first starting having a problem with feral hogs 6 years ago and the damage has gotten worse with each passing year. I have helped to trap these for the last 5 years and they get harder to trap every year. You never know when they are coming as they do not move in a pattern, they may be around for a few days then disappear only to show back up a week later or a month later. The hogs stay on the forest thru out the day and come out at dusk and tear up my pastures. During my years of trapping I have caught from 1 hog to 47 hogs at one time and I agree with the MODC that you can catch the most hogs at one time by trapping until you run into some trap wise hogs. For the last two years I have been battling some trap wise hogs, and it doesn't matter what type of bait you use they won't go into the trap. The only way I could catch the little pigs was to shoot the sow. Last winter I had a sounder that was staying on the forest to the North of my property that I never could catch, they would come up and root in front of the trap, well as other places in my pasture then leave. I think that you need to try a pilot program in Wayne, Carter, and Reynolds Counties and place a bounty on the

Dear Forest Supervisor,

I support a ban on feral hog hunting in the Mark Twain National Forest.

The elimination of feral hogs is an essential step in the conservation of our public lands and would ease the enormous financial burden this invasive species puts on Missouri farmers and other private landowners. Those involved in meeting this goal overwhelmingly support a ban on feral hog hunting. Enacting this ban in the Mark Twain National Forest is a very sensible action to take.

Sincerely,
