Trail Information

There are three primary trailheads (TH) at Brock Creek Trails: Mountain Man, Zing, and Austin.

The dotted lines are designated primarily as a single-track trail for dirt bikers; however, mountain-bikers, and hikers may also use the trail. The dash lines are double-track trails designed primarily for Off-Highway Vehicle riders.

Mountain Man TH connects single track trails. Zing TH connects to both single track and double track trails and Austin TH, on the northern side connects primarily to double track trails. Camping is not permitted at any trailhead and please Pack-It-In/ Pack-it-Out. All trailheads have designated parking and loading/unloading areas.

The Zing trailhead is the main entrance for the single track and trails 40 & 42. Most of this trails follow old forest roads. Some sections of the trail that were created to provide connecting loops require crossing steep slopes. These particular sections offer a greater challenge, requiring more skill.

The northern entrance to these trails are at the Austin trailhead and along Kincannon Mtn. Rd (FS1318). Trail 42 may also be accessed from Van Buren County Road 423. Access to the southern end of trail 51 is gained from Forest Service Road 1334 near Brock Creek Lake Dam.

Attractions:
The Big Piney Ranger District is located within the heart of the Ozarks. Visitors can view picturesque rock bluffs, swim in crystal clear streams and hike wooded hillsides.

The Brock Creek Trails are a multi-use trail system located on the Big Piney Ranger District in the beautiful Ozark National Forest. The trail system consists of two major loops and many interconnecting loops. The combined loops provide over 42 miles of trail for dirt bikers, Off-Highway Vehicle (OHV) riders and mountain bikers.

The trails meander through majestic oak/hickory forests and occasional areas of pine. These areas also contain small streams that traverse through the trail system, adding to the beauty of the area.

The Brock Creek Trails offer riders of all skill levels a great place for outdoor recreation that is suitable for the whole family.

Enjoying the Trails:

Traffic flows in both directions on the trails, so watch for oncoming traffic. Small portions of the double track are used to access the single track trails, so keep in mind that larger vehicles could be sharing those sections of the trails.

Most of the single-track trails are designed for slower technical riding. Remember your skill level!
