

South Unit
Cultural History Overview

Ashley National Forest

By
Byron Loosle, PhD
With contributions by Alison Leick and Kara Boren
Ashley National Forest
September 28, 2007

Table of Contents

Introduction.....1

Archaeological Resources.....6

Prehistoric Cultural History10

 Paleoindian Period10

 Archaic Period10

 Early Archaic11

 Late Archaic.....12

 Formative Era.....14

 Early Agricultural Period.....14

 Middle Agricultural Period.....16

 Late Agricultural Period22

 Numic Era23

Ethnohistorical Data.....24

 Strawberry Valley25

 Pine Trees.....29

 Horse Corrals31

 Corral Sites.....31

 Ethnic Affiliation of the Sites36

 The Importance of the Horse40

Historical Background43

 Ute History.....43

 Fur Trade.....44

 Reservations45

 Grazing.....48

 Mining.....51

 Gilsonite.....52

 Illegal Mining on the Reservation.....54

 Elaterite.....55

 Recent Investigations56

 Homesteading57

 Roads.....58

 Other Activities.....59

Research Concerns.....61

 Problems with Data Collection61

 Toolstone.....61

 Models for Upland Use.....61

 Chronology62

 Paleoclimatic Reconstruction.....63

References.....64

Figures

Figure 1. South Unit in relationship to the Uinta Basin and Uinta Mountains of northeastern Utah	1
Figure 2. South Unit with major canyons identified.....	2
Figure 3. Pinyon-juniper covered canyon slope in eastern end of South Unit.....	3
Figure 4. Upper elevation sagebrush steppe near Anthro Mountain	3
Figure 5. Mixed conifer and aspen at higher elevations	4
Figure 6. View from edge of escarpment that marked edge of reservation and current Forest Boundary, looking south towards Nine Mile Canyon	5
Figure 7. Proposed cultural history sequence for the South Unit	12
Figure 8. Examples of non-local material found on the South Unit	20
Figure 9. Anthropomorph at 42Dc1245.....	23
Figure 10. Ute style rock art horse near 42Dc1608	23
Figure 11. Location of Ute bands at contact.....	26
Figure 12. Fire scarred tree, cat face.....	30
Figure 13. Culturally Modified Tree.....	30
Figure 14. Branches laid against a tree	31
Figure 15. Branches forming an X.....	31
Figure 16. Corral at 42Dc1609	32
Figure 17. Plan map of 42Dc236 showing multiple drivelines and corrals.....	33
Figure 18. Well preserved Lower Corral at 42Dc236.....	34
Figure 19. Plan map of 42Dc1606 with multiple drivelines.....	34
Figure 20. Allen’s Corral site showing two sets of drivelines.....	35
Figure 21. Clifford Duncan’s drawing of a Ute horse trap.....	37
Figure 22. Corral at Allen homestead patented in 1919, located in Sowers Canyon, 42Dc2276.....	39
Figure 23. An open-cut gilsonite vein at the Black Dragon mine	53
Figure 24. Thimble-Rock mine, about 1910.....	54
Figure 25. Alison Leick in front of the two-story mine at 42Dc2302 (AS-1887)	55
Figure 26. View of the historic road and mine portal at 42Dc2302 (AS-1887)	56
Figure 27. Nine Mile and Indian Canyon Roads	59

Tables

Table 1. Radiocarbon dates from the South Unit.....8
 Table 2. Inventoried Acres on the South Unit9

Charts

Chart 1. Radiocarbon dated features from the South Unit.....7

Appendices

Appendix. Diagnostic Artifacts from South Unit71

Acknowledgements

It is important to thank some of the individuals who assisted in completing this rather daunting project. Jamie Palmer and Brian Storm prepared some of the maps and other graphics. Clay Johnson, Meghan Lester, and Jamie Palmer assisted in proofreading and correcting formatting problems. We especially want to thank the dozens of Passport in Time volunteers and summer interns that helped gather the data that made this volume possible.