

CCP—Framework for Collaboration at EYNF (Based on Cadre’s organizing model)

COLLABORATION PLAN

1. Active Public Notifications (On going)

These efforts are related to the Inform and Consult strategies in the Spectrum of Engagement (NEPA). The objective of these initiatives is primarily to communicate with the public about the revision process (at the beginning) and to gather comments from the public about the scope, and multiple drafts of the plan (continuously). Main Strategies:

- Cadre's Listening Sessions
- EPS's Workshop
- Media Tour (TV, radio, press, social media)
- Festivals and local events

2. Fact Finding

A. Environmental Literacy Baseline (Survey) [May-June: Development; Aug-Dec: Implementation]

An environmental literacy baseline survey is suggested to assess different sectors' environmental knowledge, behavior, and dispositions (attitudes/assumptions/sensitivity), and understandings about environmental policy/management. This information is needed to elaborate meaningful opportunities for involvement and address the intention of the Ruling Plan to reach "common understanding" between the FS and the public. Currently, there is no scientific information that addresses this.

B. Ethnographic Rapid Assessment

This is also a fact gathering strategy to address some of the 'missing data' reported by the socioeconomic group at the April 10th meeting. The objectives of this approach are two-folded:

- To continue the Active Public Notification process, and;
- To gather specific information from visitors, and through participant observation—e.g. practices inside EYNF, socio-demographics, and environmentally responsible behavior*.

3. Public Discussion Campaigns

These are a series of meetings and activities designed to generate discussion between and among interested and possibly affected parties. Because these activities could vary depending on the audience (visitors, landowners, farmers, hunters, tourist providers, academy), the content and format would be determined collaboratively between the EYNF, CCP, PEG, and the concerned group. This strategy will also support FS efforts to increase communities' long-term environmental literacy and conservation across the region, as well as engagement with EYNF's initiatives (i.e. building sustainability) through school and community workshops. The constitution of the PEG is central to this strategy. The objectives of these campaigns are:

- To coordinate a regional discussion through environmental and community-based organizations (CBOs) and municipalities during the three phases of consultation (Assessment, Alternatives, Objections) in accordance to Revision Plan calendar.
- To share, collect, and discuss information related to the environment and EYNF's Planning Process (14 topic areas, Alternatives, Needs).
- To increase participation of, and awareness among targeted population: youth, low-income
