

Bell Smith Springs

Bell Smith Springs is one of the most beautiful recreation areas the Shawnee National Forest has to offer. It contains a series of clear, rocky streams and scenic canyons bordered by high sandstone cliffs and an abundance of vegetation unique to Illinois. The trail system consists of seven miles of interconnected trails featuring strange and wonderful rock formations, such as Devil’s Backbone, Boulder Falls and a natural rock bridge. Hiking this system of trails is a favorite activity because of the rock features, scenic overlooks, hidden springs and lush flora and fauna.

Trail Highlights

Interpretive signs at the main trailhead explain the unique ecosystem of Bell Smith Springs and history of the area. Stone steps built into the side of the cliffs lead to the bottom of the canyon. Magnificent oak and hickory trees dominate the wooded slopes along the trail, while the bottom of the canyon is filled with huge beech creek-beds and tulip poplar trees. During the spring months, the forest floor is alive with colorful wildflowers. The trails pass deep pools along the creek’s edge, rock shelters in the bluffs and magnificent rock formations. You will encounter several scenic overlooks, some of which provide views of Bay Creek. Trail loops include Sentry Bluff Trail, traveling along an exposed sandstone cliff above the canyon floor; Mill Branch Trail, winding on either side of Mill Branch Creek; and Natural Bridge Trail, crossing the highest natural bridge with a span of 125 feet and an arch of 30 feet.

National Natural Landmark

Due to the area’s distinct number of plant communities and its unique geological features, it has been designated a National Natural Landmark. This combination of geological and ecological qualities has created a variety of habitats for a diversity of plants and wildlife. Birders come from all over the country to find tanagers, sparrows, pileated woodpeckers, eastern phoebes and several different species of vireos. The canyons and wooded slopes provide habitat for over 700 species of flowering plants, ferns and lichens. That is about 20% of the total number of plants and lichens known in the entire state of Illinois.
