A Reminder: No fireworks or Exploding Targets Allowed on the Colville National Forest

Colville, WA – Colville National Forest Supervisor Laura Jo West is reminding visitors and campers that the use of all fireworks and exploding targets are prohibited on the Colville National Forests.

Fireworks, exploding targets and other pyrotechnic devices are prohibited on national forests in Oregon and Washington year-round, regardless of weather conditions or holidays.

“While all of us enjoy fireworks during the summer holidays, federal law prohibits their use on the National Forests. Fireworks represent a real threat to our forests in spite of the wet weather we have been having,” said Laura Jo West, Colville National Forest Supervisor.

Regulations are enforced, and violation is punishable as a misdemeanor by a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment of not more than six months, or both.

Forest visitors are also reminded to ensure that all fires are extinguished and cold to the touch before leaving them. For more information contact your local Forest Service Ranger Station.

The mission of the US Forest Service is to sustain the health, diversity, and productivity of the nation's forests and grasslands to meet the needs of present and future generations. Recreational activities on our lands contribute $14.5 billion annually to the U.S. economy. The agency manages 193 million acres of public land, provides assistance to state and private landowners, and maintains the largest forestry research organization in the world.
