Wildcat Trail, located on London Ranger District, starts at the interpretive site at Camp Wildcat and ends at Hoosier Knob. Camp Wildcat is the site of the first engagement of regular troops in Kentucky during the Civil War. Camp Wildcat is in Laurel County on Wildcat Mountain. This remote site is reached by a narrow gravel road. The site has a pavilion with interpretive signs, parking area, trails and vault toilets.

Note: The road to Wildcat is a narrow gravel county road that under some conditions may not be passable by low clearance vehicles. Call the London office for information about road conditions. You may need to pull over to the side to accommodate a vehicle coming from the opposite direction. You will encounter several curves that are hard to see around, and a steep section towards the end.
