Welcome to the Crazy Mountains

This impressive "island" mountain range is a patchwork of BOTH private and national forest lands.

In the Crazy Mountains, Forest Service trails often cross private land. In these areas, stay on the designated trails. Many popular destinations, such as Crazy Peak and Moose Lake are on private property. Permission is required for any activities, such as camping, rock climbing, hunting, etc. on private lands off the designated trails.

Please respect private lands while visiting this beautiful area.

In the backcountry...

*Please camp only on national forest lands using existing campsites that are at least 200 feet from lake shores, streams and trails. Campsites are extremely limited in the fragile sub-alpine and alpine areas due to difficult access, ownership patterns, and rugged terrain.

*Campfires may not be allowed in some locations, as posted. Gas stoves are recommended.

*Grazing opportunities for riding and pack stock on national forest lands are limited. All feed you bring with you must be certified weed seed free.
