

TRAILS

HELL'S GATE WILDERNESS

There is a network of "system" trails serving the Hell's Gate Wilderness Area and contiguous areas. Their condition varies from satisfactory to very poor.

All trails are closed to motor vehicles and mechanical transport such as bikes.

Use a great deal of caution when traveling on backcountry trails such as this one, and be aware of the risks you assume.

While we do not want to take away the visitor's sense of discovery and adventure, we do feel a few brief comments are in order about the following trail:

Pocket Trail 38: 7 miles in length. Most of this route is an old jeep trail, although it can be difficult to find and follow.
Elevation: between 3400feet and 3797 feet.
Termini: Forest Road #454 (near Pocket Cabin), and Forest Road #134 (northwest of Soldier Camp).

Be sure to secure your vehicle, and don't leave valuables in sight while you're gone. Also be sure someone knows where you are going.
