Forest Service Conservation Education Program in a partnership with Prince William County School District is leading an unprecedented event encourages students to move, be active, and get excited about enjoying the outdoors while learning about their environment.

On Friday, June 4, 2010

ED OUT

“Head Outdoors for Education and Fun”

ED OUT will:

- Provide an exciting learning experience in the final days of the school year
- Introduce students to green careers and show how these careers contribute to the Nation
- Challenge the trend toward sedentary, indoor lifestyles
- Offer students concrete and stimulating ways to keep learning during the summer months.

500 students from the Prince William County Public Schools will participate in an exciting day full of outdoor education activities.

They will also be sworn in by a member of USDA Forest Service Leadership as Junior Forest Rangers!

Partners supporting the effort include the American Recreation Coalition, the National Wildlife Federation, Project Learning Tree, DOI, EPA, and many others.
