CAMPGROUND FEES GO UP ON CLEVELAND NATIONAL FOREST

San Diego, CA ...February 9, 2009- The Cleveland National Forest has increased the fees charged at campgrounds. Fees charged at regular campgrounds will go up between $3 and $10 per night and group campgrounds will go up $10 to $20 per night starting in 2009.

Campground fees had not changed since 1999, even though the cost to keep areas open and clean has.

Four campground sites on the Trabuco Ranger District will be affected: Blue Jay, Falcon Group, Upper San Juan, and Wildomar.

Five campground sites on the Palomar Ranger District will be affected: Dripping Springs, Fry Creek, Indian Flat, Oak Grove, and Observatory.

Fees on two campground sites on the Descanso Ranger District will increase, Boulder Oaks and Cibbetts Flat Campground, while the Wooded Hill Campground will go down in cost (see table).

“Most areas of the forest are open year round offering campers endless recreational activities,” said Will Metz, forest supervisor. “These fees will provide money to help cover the current cost of operating these sites. Visitors will see an improvement of the campgrounds in the coming year.”
