Picnic Area Rules and Regulations

Daniel Boone National Forest

About These Rules
All users of national forests are subject to federal regulations. They are meant to control actions that cause damage to natural resources and facilities, as well as actions that cause unreasonable disturbances or unsafe conditions for visitors.

This is not a comprehensive or official list of regulations. The full, official set is published in Title 36: Parks, Forests, and Public Property of the Code of Federal Regulations, available at Forest Service offices and online at www.ecfr.gov.

Violations are punishable by a fine of not more than $5,000 for an individual and $10,000 for an organization, or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both. See 16 U.S.C. 551, 18 U.S.C. 3559 and 3571.

Regional Foresters and Forest Supervisors may issue orders (found in bold on this list) that will close or restrict the use of certain areas if the need arises. The official copies are available at Forest Service offices and on the forest website at www.fs.usda.gov/dbf.

Other rules from various state and Federal regulations are enforced in this area. This is particularly true in the case of traffic, boating, hunting, fishing and trapping.

The federal government is not responsible for any loss or theft of personal property.
