Prohibitions

In accordance with the U.S. Forest Service regulations, certain areas within the forest are subject to specific prohibitions to protect the natural resources and ensure public safety. These prohibitions include:

1. Firewood Cutting: Cutting of firewood is prohibited in designated areas to prevent the spread of wildfires.
2. Campfires: The use of campfires is restricted to designated fire rings to minimize the risk of forest fires.
3. Collection of Natural Resources: Collection of any natural resources such as plants, minerals, or water is prohibited without a permit from the Forest Service.
4. Motorized Vehicles: Use of motorized vehicles except as specified in the map is prohibited to protect the fragile ecosystem and preserve the natural beauty of the forest.

Operator Responsibilities

As a visitor, you are expected to:

- Observe all posted signs and regulations.
- Respect the natural environment and wildlife.
- Use designated trails and areas.
- Keep your vehicle on designated roads.
- Dispose of waste in appropriate containers.

Seasonal and Special Vehicle Designations

The map includes various roads designated for seasonal or special use. These designations are crucial for the management and protection of the forest. To ensure the proper use of these roads, the following rules apply:

- Roads designated for seasonal use are closed during certain months due to weather or resource protection.
- Special vehicle designations are meant for specific types of vehicles that require access to certain areas for forest management or other purposes.
- All vehicles using designated roads must follow the posted speed limits and carry appropriate vehicle permits when required.
