

CORNUCOPIA

GOLD TOWN

1964

View of the trash rask in the water transmission line from East Fork of Pine. For power plant at Cornucopia.

Junction of water transmission lines from East Fork Pine and Simmons Creek. Simmons Creek is not in use, for power plant at Cornucopia.

Pipe line crossing East Fork of Pine for the power plant at Cornucopia.

View of the power plant from the road going to Cornucopia.

Front view of the power plant at Cornucopia.

View of the outlet of power plant at Cornucopia.

View of Chris Schneiders house at Cornucopia.

View of one of the stores at Cornucopia building to the right is the hose house for fire. The building to the right and rear is the jail.

View of one of the stores at Cornucopia.

View of another store at Cornucopia.

View of one of the residences at Cornucopia.

View of another residence at Cornucopia.

Front view of a log house for a family who cut wood at Cornucopia.

View of the log barn used to house horses that hauled wood at Cornucopia.

Distant view of Cornucopia from Schneider Meadow road.

Another distant view of Cornucopia.

BAKFR MINES

POWER PLANT

Front view of the Baker Mines Power Plant. This plant produced electricity for Cornucopia and town of Carson and Halfway.

21 inch pipeline that brought the water to the Baker Mines Power Plant.

Rear view of the Baker Mines Power Plant below Cornucopia.

View of the outlet that water came out of from the power plant.