Difficulty: Moderate

USGS Quad: Gray Wolf, Hemlock Lake

Beginning Elevation: 5,160 ft

Ending Elevation: 6,164 ft Heart Lake

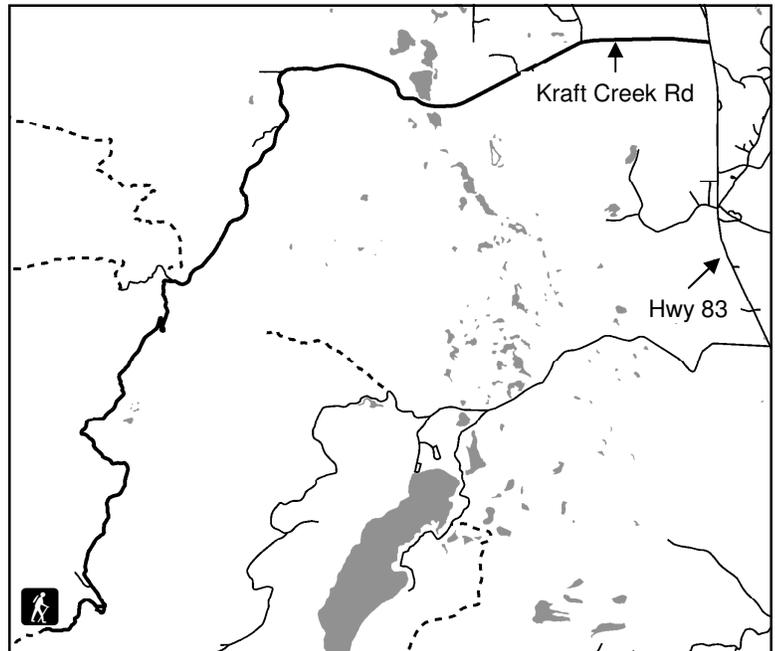

Directions: From Highway 83 south of mile marker 38, turn west onto Kraft Creek Rd also called Forest Service Road #561. Continue for 11.5 miles to the trailhead at the end of the road.

Season: This trail is typically clear and snow-free by early July

Regulations: This trail is in the Mission Mountains Wilderness which allows both hiking and horse riding, but prohibits motorized vehicles and mechanized transport which includes mountain bikes.

Please note that there is no camping allowed within a ¼ of a mile of Glacier Lake. There are also several restoration areas along this trail—please respect these closures.

Trail Description: Follow Trail 690 as though heading to Glacier Lake through mature forest, in less than one mile one will approach the junction of Trail 690 and Trail 742, stay right on Trail 690 and start heading up eight switchbacks to the upper trail junction. At switchback #5, there is a rock outcropping that offers outstanding views looking down on Glacier Lake and surrounding peaks; please watch your footing. At the upper trail junction of 690 and 708, stay right on 690 and follow through dense forest and huckleberry patches to Crescent Lake. From Crescent Lake take in the views of the surrounding mountains and continue on up to Heart Lake.

Note: Many roads are not displayed.
