

Eureka Peak Trail #671

Recreation Opportunity Guide

Distance..... 1.1 miles (one way)
Elevation..... 3200-4100 feet
Snow Free ..... May to November

Most Difficult

Trail Highlights: This short forested trail can make a nice loop for mountain bikers when combined with the eastern segments of Still Creek Road (Forest Road 2612) and Sherar Burn Road (Forest Road 2613). The trail travels through a fairly young lodgepole pine forest and as it descends it, passes between older stands of Douglas fir. Eureka Peak is located a few miles from Trillium Lake and Still Creek Campgrounds.

Trail Description: Starting from the southern end at Sherar Burn Road, this single track trail descends almost the entire length to its end at Still Creek Road (Forest Road 2612). The grade varies from moderate to steep, but the trail is mostly intended for experienced mountain bikers. There is one water crossing near the bottom.
