

Discover the Forest – Podcast

(Noise: birds chirping throughout)

Announcer:

Your National Forests are full of life. With abundant animals, plants and water. Almost everything we do has an impact on nature and the environment. This is where the water you drink comes from. So don't you think you need to learn more about your National Forest? Discover your National Forest. Learn together how we impact each other. The Forest Service would like to invite all of you to use your imagination and discover new animals and plants along the way. Get out and play where the other you lives.

This message brought to you by the US Forest Service.