YEAGER CABIN TRAIL #111

GENERAL INFORMATION: Yeager Cabin Trail #111 lies in the drainage of Little Yeager Canyon. Ponderosa pine forest shades the trail as it gradually climbs its way towards Yeager Canyon Trail #28. This trail, just southwest of the Mingus Mountain Summit, is excellent for watching wildlife. Fortunate visitors may see deer, elk, and a variety of birds. Black bears also make their home in this area. Rolled rocks along the trail show where bears have passed by, turning stones in search of grubs and other insects.

TR 111 serves as a connection between TR 28 and Little Yeager Canyon Trail #533. These three trails form a 6-mile loop that passes through lush riparian vegetation and deciduous hardwood forest in the bottom of Yeager Canyon.
