

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 9:38:00 AM

First name: nata

Last name: y

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: ynata2000@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

nata y

348 faneuil

brighton, MA 02135

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 1:03:04 PM

First name: Mark

Last name: Yackley

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Mark Yackley
1930 N Hoover St
Los Angeles, CA 90027
(323) 666-7931
meyackley@aol.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 2:35:20 PM

First name: Marc

Last name: Yaffee

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 2365 Roman Dr

Address2:

City: Sparks

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 89434

Country: United States

Email: marcyaffee@gmail.com

Phone: 7074895564

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:20:58 AM

First name: Sandra

Last name: Yaggy

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 143 Fearington Post

Address2:

City: Pittsboro

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 27312

Country: United States

Email: spyaggy@mac.com

Phone: 9195426189

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:30:14 AM

First name: Stephen

Last name: Yahn

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: steveyahn@comcast.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Stephen Yahn
1467 Thomas Lane
Eagan, MN 55122

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 1:14:03 PM

First name: Brenda Fitzger

Last name: yahoo.com

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 4030 Barbary Ln

Address2:

City: North Port

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 34287

Country: United States

Email: brenda Fitzger@yahoo.com

Phone: 9412750945

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nation's most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 10:11:37 AM

First name: June

Last name: Yamada

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: june.yamada1@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

June Yamada
13861 MANOR DRIVE UNIT B
WESTMINSTER, CA 92683

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:34:26 AM

First name: Alan

Last name: Yamamoto

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: yamamoti_alan@att.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Alan Yamamoto
26522 Whispering Leaves Dr.
Newhall, CA 91321

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 2:32:02 PM

First name: Bob

Last name: Yancey

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Bob Yancey
570 sorento ave
Sorento, IL 62086
(217) 272-4446
bobyancey52@gmail.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 11:10:44 AM

First name: Michelle

Last name: Yandrich

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 50 E California Ave

Address2:

City: Columbus

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 43202

Country: United States

Email: kitooze@yahoo.com

Phone: 4152981192

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 5:14:11 PM

First name: Andrea

Last name: Yanez

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: andreyanez7@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Andrea Yanez
7750 Sw 106th St
Miami, FL 33156

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 5:02:16 PM

First name: Guadalupe

Last name: Yanez

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Guadalupe Yanez
12484 Robert Dahl Dr.
El Paso, TX 79938
(915) 929-5246
lupe.yanez49@gmail.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:47:07 AM

First name: Guadalupe

Last name: Yanez

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: lupe.yanez49@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Guadalupe Yanez
12484 Robert Dahl Drive
El Paso, TX 79938

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/4/2018 1:58:53 PM

First name: Margaret

Last name: Yang

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: mcyf@uw.edu

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Margaret Yang
2010 NE 50th St
Seattle, WA 98105

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/6/2018 10:49:02 AM

First name: Radka

Last name: Yang

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: radkayang@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Radka Yang
4804 Norstar Blvd
Apt. 4-229
LIVERPOOL, NY 13088

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:17:23 AM

First name: Rev.

Last name: Yanish

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 44 Lily Pond Ln

Address2:

City: Katonah

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 10536

Country: United States

Email: msy34@msn.com

Phone: 9144509766

Comments:

I am deeply offended - appalled actually - that the Forest Service is once again considering undoing ANY safeguards that protect our precious remaining wilderness. So I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/3/2018 3:07:51 AM

First name: Steven

Last name: Yankoviak

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: syankoviak@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Steven Yankoviak
2202 Long Leaf St.
Kalamazoo, MI 49006

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 8:34:23 AM

First name: Steven

Last name: Yanoff

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 263 White Oaks Canyon Rd

Address2:

City: White Oaks

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 88301

Country: United States

Email: yanoff@tularosa.net

Phone: 5756480011

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 8:52:33 AM

First name: David

Last name: Yanosik

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: dwyanosik@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

David Yanosik

9005 Quail Run Dr

-

Perry Hall, MD 21128

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 8:02:58 AM

First name: Steviann

Last name: Yanowitz

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: steviannkagen@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Steviann Yanowitz
6457 Firmament Ave.
Van Nuys, CA 91406

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 7:05:03 AM

First name: Eric

Last name: Yao

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: aneric Yao@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Eric Yao
2182 Poplar Grove Ct
Snellville, GA 30078

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/24/2018 2:41:55 PM

First name: Eric

Last name: Yao

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 2182 Poplar Grove Ct

Address2:

City: Snellville

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 30078

Country: United States

Email: aneric Yao@gmail.com

Phone: 4049882057

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 4:53:18 PM

First name: James

Last name: Yarbrough

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 1345 Apple Way

Address2:

City: Ashland

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 97520

Country: United States

Email: jyarbro2003@yahoo.com

Phone: 5417086652

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 8:46:27 AM

First name: Larry

Last name: Yard

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 1125 Laguna Seca Ct

Address2:

City: Banning

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 92220

Country: United States

Email: larryjyard@aol.com

Phone: 7608614407

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 1:26:59 PM

First name: Ebony

Last name: Yarger

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: ebonyjyarger@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Ebony Yarger
357 blue lakes blvd n
Apt 5
Twin Falls, ID 83301

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:38:00 AM

First name: Andre

Last name: Yarian

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: andrezone@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Andre Yarian

10947 Bloomfield St., Apartment 306

306

North Hollywood, CA 91602

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/11/2018 1:53:57 PM

First name: Jesse

Last name: Yarmolyuk

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 34 e blaine st

Address2:

City: LaNsdale

State: PA

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 19446

Country: United States

Email: Yarmoj@yahoo.com

Phone:

Comments:

Do not destroy or invade any of the protected regions!

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:35:02 AM

First name: Karen

Last name: Yarnell

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 21 Beverly Cir

Address2:

City: Fairmont

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 26554

Country: United States

Email: karen.yarnell@fairmontstate.edu

Phone: 3043674878

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:35:41 AM

First name: Karen

Last name: Yarnell

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 21 Beverly Cir

Address2:

City: Fairmont

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 26554

Country: United States

Email: karen.yarnell@fairmontstate.edu

Phone: 3043674878

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 6:46:50 PM

First name: william

Last name: yarocho

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: wyarocho@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge you to continue to protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass.

I want nature and truly wild places to exist. We need them to exist. But right now, the U.S. Forest Service is considering a plan to open up the wildest places in our largest national forest, the Tongass, to commercial logging and the road building that accompanies it.

The Tongass has trees that have been standing for 800 years. It would be a tragedy open up the wildest parts of this forest to commercial logging and road building - not just a tragedy, an immoral tragedy. Have you no conscience?

Sincerely,

william yarocho
1631 dover rd
kalamazoo, MI 49008

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 6:46:53 PM

First name: william

Last name: yarocho

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: wyarocho@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge you to continue to protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass.

I want nature and truly wild places to exist. We need them to exist. But right now, the U.S. Forest Service is considering a plan to open up the wildest places in our largest national forest, the Tongass, to commercial logging and the road building that accompanies it.

The Tongass has trees that have been standing for 800 years. It would be a tragedy open up the wildest parts of this forest to commercial logging and road building - not just a tragedy, an immoral tragedy. Have you no conscience?

Sincerely,

william yarocho
1631 dover rd
kalamazoo, MI 49008

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 6:46:52 PM

First name: william

Last name: yarocho

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: wyarocho@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge you to continue to protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass.

I want nature and truly wild places to exist. We need them to exist. But right now, the U.S. Forest Service is considering a plan to open up the wildest places in our largest national forest, the Tongass, to commercial logging and the road building that accompanies it.

The Tongass has trees that have been standing for 800 years. It would be a tragedy open up the wildest parts of this forest to commercial logging and road building - not just a tragedy, an immoral tragedy. Have you no conscience?

Sincerely,

william yarocho
1631 dover rd
kalamazoo, MI 49008

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 9:12:21 AM

First name: erin

Last name: yarrobino

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 84-23 109th Ave

Address2:

City: Queens

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 11417

Country: United States

Email: thecatlady2015@outlook.com

Phone: 7188483747

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/6/2018 5:05:31 AM

First name: Kyle

Last name: Yaskin

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 6, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Kyle Yaskin
1751 Laurel Canyon Blvd.
Los Angeles, CA 90046
(323) 934-8293
kyaskin@hotmail.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 6:04:21 PM

First name: Jane

Last name: Yater

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: jayater@texas.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Jane Yater

2654 Barton Hills Drive

Apt, Suite, Bldg. (optional)

Austin, TX 78704

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 5:35:53 PM

First name: Joan

Last name: Yater

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 2407 Childs Ln

Address2:

City: Alexandria

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 22308

Country: United States

Email: jeyater@os2bbs.com

Phone: 7037802430

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 2:02:24 PM

First name: Adam

Last name: Yates

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Adam Yates
4404 Sierra Hwy
Acton, CA 93510
(661) 269-1610
shunkawea1@att.net

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/9/2018 7:06:28 AM

First name: Alison

Last name: Yates

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 9, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Alison Yates

23 Union st

Bolton, None BL7 9SP

(790) 828-4198

aliandgeoff@aligeoffyates.plus.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 6:14:55 AM

First name: Ann

Last name: Yates

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 3231 E 43rd Ave

Address2:

City: Anchorage

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 99508

Country: United States

Email: annkyates@gmail.com

Phone: 9077276585

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 11:34:18 AM

First name: KENNETH

Last name: YATES

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 532 Via De La Paz

Address2:

City: Los Angeles

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 90272

Country: United States

Email: Kmydds@aol.com

Phone: 3102255581

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 9:24:52 AM

First name: Michelle

Last name: Yates

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 206 E Jules Verne Way

Address2:

City: Cary

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 27511

Country: United States

Email: myates67@gmail.com

Phone: 9196162791

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/25/2018 7:23:21 AM

First name: Pamela

Last name: Yates

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 890 NW 6th St

Address2:

City: Gresham

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 97030

Country: United States

Email: yates890@comcast.net

Phone: 5033416757

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:35:37 AM

First name: Paula

Last name: Yates

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: piby44@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to STRONGLY urge the U.S. Forest Service NOT to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We should NOT make it vulnerable to destructive development.

NO ROADS IN TONGASS NOW AND FOREVER.

Sincerely,

Paula Yates
997 Township Rd 9
Mt Perry, OH 43760

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 3:30:14 PM

First name: WILLIAM

Last name: YATES

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: WLYATESJR@GMAIL.COM

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM YATES
4603 HINCHINGHAM LANE
LOTHIAN, MD 20711

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 9:09:05 AM

First name: Deatra

Last name: Yatman

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 5012 Nagle Ave

Address2:

City: Los Angeles

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 91423

Country: United States

Email: deatra4sure@gmail.com

Phone: 3106666193

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 10:08:41 AM

First name: Daniel

Last name: Yazbek

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 35 Blenford Rd

Address2:

City: Boston

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 02135

Country: United States

Email: dan_yazbek@msn.com

Phone: 6177821636

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:18:19 AM

First name: Teri

Last name: Yazdi

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 51 Winding Way

Address2:

City: San Carlos

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 94070

Country: United States

Email: kalaentaxi@earthlink.net

Phone: 6505926471

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/3/2018 1:30:35 PM

First name: Noemi

Last name: Ybarra

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: nybarra@dcwi.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. Such places truly need large unbroken expanses of wild lands.

The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Noemi Ybarra
1006 Hartford St.
Lafayette, IN 47904

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 8:34:00 AM

First name: Gail

Last name: Yborra

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 803 W 8th St

Address2:

City: Wilmington

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 19801

Country: United States

Email: gail.yborra@gmail.com

Phone: 4434856318

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 2:32:39 PM

First name: Gail

Last name: Yborra

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Gail Yborra
803 W 8th St
Wilmington, DE 19801
(443) 485-6318
gail.yborra@gmail.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/5/2018 9:47:15 AM

First name: Janis

Last name: YEAGER

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: jdyeager@everestkc.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Janis YEAGER
12600 W 77th Street
Lenexa, KS 66216

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:28:02 AM

First name: Sky

Last name: Yeager

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 4400 NW Walnut Blvd

Address2:

City: Corvallis

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 97330

Country: United States

Email: redhawksky@copper.net

Phone: 5204562844

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 8:11:03 AM

First name: K

Last name: Yearwood

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 270 Gray Dr

Address2:

City: Abingdon

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 24210

Country: United States

Email: kimy358@comcast.net

Phone: 2766285498

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 9:08:16 AM

First name: Tyler

Last name: Yeates

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 630 Medical Dr

Address2:

City: Bountiful

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 84010

Country: United States

Email: wingingscapula@gmail.com

Phone: 8012992200

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:32:58 AM

First name: Tyler

Last name: Yeates

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: wingingscapula@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Tyler Yeates
630 E Medical Drive
Bountiful, UT 84010

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 9:16:51 AM

First name: Margaret

Last name: Yelenik

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: myelenik7375@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Margaret Yelenik
27 Nottingham Road
Manalapan, NJ 07726

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/4/2018 3:42:29 PM

First name: shane

Last name: yellin

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: shaneyellin@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

shane yellin

4517 cove dr.

apt1

Carlsbad, CA 92008

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/24/2018 12:10:06 PM

First name: shane

Last name: yellin

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 4517 Cove Dr

Address2: Apt 1

City: Carlsbad

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 92008

Country: United States

Email: shaneyellin@gmail.com

Phone: 6172564728

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/7/2018 11:08:10 AM

First name: Stefanie

Last name: Yellis

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 7, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Stefanie Yellis
6110A Ocean View Dr.
Oakland, CA 94618
(510) 922-1500
stef.yellis@att.net

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/23/2018 3:32:37 PM

First name: Joseph

Last name: Yencich

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 9117 NE 151st St

Address2:

City: Bothell

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 98011

Country: United States

Email: jyencich@gmail.com

Phone: 2069409364

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 5:14:30 AM

First name: Queily

Last name: Yenner

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: Qsanch@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Queily Yenner
12111 Larimore rd
Saint Louis, MO 63138

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 4:32:41 PM

First name: Leigh

Last name: Yeoman

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Leigh Yeoman
10501 Moss Mill Lane
Charlotte, NC 28277
(704) 517-7602
lyeoman@carolina.rr.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 8/31/2018 8:47:07 AM

First name: Valerie

Last name: Yeoman

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: vyeoman@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Valerie Yeoman
2516 Windsor Circle W.
Eugene, OR 97405

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:02:02 AM

First name: Helen

Last name: Yeomans

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: hyeomans@everestkc.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Helen Yeomans
9234 Kessler
Overland Park, KS 66212

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:37:41 AM

First name: Helen

Last name: Yeomans

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 9234 Kessler Ln

Address2:

City: Overland Park

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 66212

Country: United States

Email: hyeomans@everestkc.net

Phone: 9133413829

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 12:14:31 PM

First name: Kathy

Last name: Yeomans

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 2522 Yuma Ct

Address2:

City: Ventura

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 93001

Country: United States

Email: kathyyeo@hotmail.com

Phone: 8053773284

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:35:58 AM

First name: Ronald

Last name: Yeomans

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: ryeomans@everestkc.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Ronald Yeomans

9234 Kessler Ln

9

Overland Park, KS 66212

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 4:01:30 PM

First name: Julian

Last name: Yerena

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 13571 E 3rd St

Address2:

City: Parlier

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 93648

Country: United States

Email: julianjr559@sbcglobal.net

Phone: 5599400705

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/19/2018 3:45:57 PM

First name: Jodi

Last name: Yerges

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 307 N 8th St

Address2:

City: Watertown

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 53094

Country: United States

Email: jodiquilts@gmail.com

Phone: 9202620518

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

We need to protect every inch of forest to help fight climate change

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/7/2018 5:03:08 PM

First name: Sarah

Last name: Yergin

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: sarah-glen2011@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Sarah Yergin
6218 156th St N W
Gig Harbor, WA 98332

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/7/2018 1:10:00 AM

First name: Iris

Last name: Yermak

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: sandy253@verizon.net

Phone:

Comments:

Protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge you to continue to protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass.

I want nature and truly wild places to exist. We need them to exist. But right now, the U.S. Forest Service is considering a plan to open up the wildest places in our largest national forest, the Tongass, to commercial logging and the road building that accompanies it.

The Tongass has trees that have been standing for 800 years. It would be a tragedy open up the wildest parts of this forest to commercial logging and road building.

Sincerely,

Iris Yermak
505 Hillcrest Av
Wilmington, DE 19809

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/7/2018 1:10:01 AM

First name: Iris

Last name: Yermak

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: sandy253@verizon.net

Phone:

Comments:

Protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge you to continue to protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass.

I want nature and truly wild places to exist. We need them to exist. But right now, the U.S. Forest Service is considering a plan to open up the wildest places in our largest national forest, the Tongass, to commercial logging and the road building that accompanies it.

The Tongass has trees that have been standing for 800 years. It would be a tragedy open up the wildest parts of this forest to commercial logging and road building.

Sincerely,

Iris Yermak
505 Hillcrest Av
Wilmington, DE 19809

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/4/2018 11:33:09 PM

First name: Iris

Last name: Yermak

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: sandy253@verizon.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Iris Yermak
505 Hillcrest Av
Wilmington, DE 19809

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/7/2018 1:09:52 AM

First name: Iris

Last name: Yermak

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: sandy253@verizon.net

Phone:

Comments:

Protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge you to continue to protect wild, roadless areas in the Tongass.

I want nature and truly wild places to exist. We need them to exist. But right now, the U.S. Forest Service is considering a plan to open up the wildest places in our largest national forest, the Tongass, to commercial logging and the road building that accompanies it.

The Tongass has trees that have been standing for 800 years. It would be a tragedy open up the wildest parts of this forest to commercial logging and road building.

Sincerely,

Iris Yermak
505 Hillcrest Av
Wilmington, DE 19809

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 1:32:02 PM

First name: Janet

Last name: Yesh

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

Leave the animals to their homes. I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Janet Yesh
4420 NW 93rd Ave
Gainesville, FL 32653
janetyesh@yahoo.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/15/2018 4:52:31 AM

First name: Mark

Last name: Yesia

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 13688 Northlands Rd

Address2:

City: Eastvale

State: CA

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 92880

Country: United States

Email: m_yesia@yahoo.com

Phone: 714-600-0062

Comments:

??CRITICAL ACTION: The trump administration has launched a plan to remove the Roadless Rule protections for the Tongass National Forest.

COMMENT DUE TOMORROW 10/15/18

It will also destroy the only habitat the the rare Alexander Archipelago wolves have. Despite this, Alaska Department of Fish and Game will allow hunters to hunt and trap 20% of the Alexander Archipelago wolves on Prince of Wales Island.

All the while, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is working hard to undermine safeguards for the Tongass's centuries-old trees - the only home for these wolves and their prey.

This plan puts all of our forests at risk.

PLEASE COMMENT: <https://cara.ecosystem-management.org/Public//CommentInput?Project=54511>

Some talking points you can use, please personalize:

We urge you to continue the Roadless Rule protection of our old-growth forest in Southeast Alaska.

The Roadless Rule protects 9.3 million acres of breathtaking, undeveloped roadless land in the Tongass. If the Trump administration moves forward with its plan to dismantle the Roadless Rule in the Tongass, it will endanger much of the old-growth temperate rainforest remaining on Earth.

It will also destroy the only habitat the the rare Alexander Archipelago wolves have. Despite this, Alaska Department of Fish and Game will allow hunters to hunt and trap 20% of the Alexander Archipelago wolves on Prince of Wales Island while U.S. Department of Agriculture is working hard to undermine safeguards for the Tongass's centuries-old trees - the only home for these wolves and their prey.

ACTION POST by the Alaskan Wilderness League: Stop New Tongass Clearcuts: Preserve the Roadless Rule!

The Trump administration has just launched a plan that remove Roadless Rule protections for the Tongass National Forest in Southeast Alaska. This plan puts all our forests at risk. Submit a comment to the U.S. Forest Service urging continued Roadless Rule protection of our old-growth forest in Southeast Alaska.

The trump administration has launched a plan to remove the Roadless Rule protections for the Tongass National Forest.

It will also destroy the only habitat the the rare Alexander Archipelago wolves have. Despite this, Alaska Department of Fish and Game will allow hunters to hunt and trap 20% of the Alexander Archipelago wolves on Prince of Wales Island.

All the while, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is working hard to undermine safeguards for the Tongass's centuries-old trees - the only home for these wolves and their prey.

This plan puts all of our forests at risk.

We urge you to continue the Roadless Rule protection of our old-growth forest in Southeast Alaska.

The Roadless Rule protects 9.3 million acres of breathtaking, undeveloped roadless land in the Tongass. If the Trump administration moves forward with its plan to dismantle the Roadless Rule in the Tongass, it will endanger much of the old-growth temperate rainforest remaining on Earth.

It will also destroy the only habitat the the rare Alexander Archipelago wolves have. Despite this, Alaska Department of Fish and Game will allow hunters to hunt and trap 20% of the Alexander Archipelago wolves on Prince of Wales Island while U.S. Department of Agriculture is working hard to undermine safeguards for the Tongass's centuries-old trees - the only home for these wolves and their prey.

I love visiting Alaska and all of its beauty but will not continue to visit and spend my tourist dollars if the killing of these, and all of God's precious creatures continues. Let them roam and run free in the wild as nature intended. People, and NOT these beautiful creatures, are the true Killers!!!

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:40:29 AM

First name: Denise

Last name: Yesland

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: dyfeb2254@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Denise Yesland
2087 West Pellinore Way
Post Falls, ID 83854

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:31:20 PM

First name: Michael

Last name: Yester

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: myester@bellsouth.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Having been in that area, all of it needs to be kept wild.

Sincerely,

Michael Yester
1301 58th St. S
Birmingham, AL 35222

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/7/2018 7:21:53 AM

First name: Faruk

Last name: Yetiker

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: jujubowser@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Faruk Yetiker
12023 La Hwy 89
Erath, LA 70533

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 1:08:49 PM

First name: William

Last name: Yingst

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: wyingst@atmc.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

William Yingst
1042 Putting Lane
Carolina Shores, NC 28467

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/5/2018 10:09:43 AM

First name: Cynthia

Last name: Yngve

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: hunter_c@comcast.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Yngve
23 Parker Terrace
North Easton, MA 02356

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:59:59 AM

First name: LuAnn

Last name: Yocky

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: Luyocky@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

LuAnn Yocky
17411 Canal Circle
Lake Oswego, OR 97035

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/1/2018 10:39:21 AM

First name: Amanda

Last name: Yoder

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 337 Velva Dr

Address2:

City: Chesapeake

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 23325

Country: United States

Email: Ayyogurt@yahoo.com

Phone: 7577577577

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 6:40:12 PM

First name: Louise

Last name: Yohalem

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: PO Box 102

Address2:

City: Mill River

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 01244

Country: United States

Email: louisey77@msn.com

Phone: 4134296098

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/6/2018 3:36:26 PM

First name: Christopher

Last name: Yohn

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: Coyn37@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Christopher Yohn
1136 Commonwealth Blvd
Shillington, PA 19607

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 12:34:59 PM

First name: Brad

Last name: Yoho

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Brad Yoho
23440 Somerset Crossing Place
Ashburn, VA 20148
(703) 430-7945
byoho@hotmail.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 5:29:58 AM

First name: Sarah

Last name: Yonder

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: syonder@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Sarah Yonder
1273 W Nielson Rd
Sanford, MI 48657

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 7:51:00 PM

First name: eben

Last name: yonnetti

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: npppr18@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

eben yonnetti
1908 inglewood dr
apt d charlottesville, VA 22901

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/22/2018 7:14:49 PM

First name: KEN

Last name: YORGAN

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: Summit Ave

Address2:

City: Racine

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 53404

Country: United States

Email: whydoc321@gmail.com

Phone: 2628840484

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/15/2018 9:27:32 AM

First name: Tamara

Last name: York

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 1376 Meadowlark Lane

Address2:

City: Amelia

State: OH

Province/Region: OH

Zip/Postal Code: 45102

Country: United States

Email:

Phone:

Comments:

I do not support the harvesting, removal, or modification of the Tongass National Forest. We do not need to be harvesting historically significant trees. There is no need for this destruction of our national heritage.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 2:06:23 PM

First name: Athos

Last name: Yorkshire

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 390 NE 59th Terrace

Address2:

City: Miami

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 33137

Country: United States

Email: athosyork@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 8/31/2018 4:38:30 AM

First name: Carol

Last name: Yost

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: yostc@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a 17 million-acre diverse ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Carol Yost
212 West 16th Street
Apt. 1-E
New York, NY 10011

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/4/2018 3:08:09 PM

First name: Vivian

Last name: Yost

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: vivianjost@comcast.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Vivian Yost

9109 Vernetta Way Elk Grove CA 9562

Elk Grove, CA 95624

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 5:18:26 AM

First name: Viviana

Last name: Yost

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: viviana@yosttech.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Viviana Yost
8110 Sycamore Rd
Centerburg, OH 43011

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/25/2018 5:12:47 PM

First name: Anita

Last name: Youabian

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 10725 Ohio Ave

Address2: Apt 201

City: Los Angeles

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 90024

Country: United States

Email: anita.youabian@gmail.com

Phone: 3108015578

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 4:56:27 AM

First name: Rachel

Last name: Youens

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: info@ryouens.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Rachel Youens
657 E. 26th Street
Brooklyn, NY 11210

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 5:38:00 AM

First name: K.

Last name: Youmans

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: oyoumans@inlandnet.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

K. Youmans

PO Box 291

Roslyn, WA 98941

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:04:09 AM

First name: Paul

Last name: Youmans

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: pauly@vt.edu

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Paul Youmans
3604 Georgetown Rd
Roanoke, VA 24018

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/1/2018 10:05:24 AM

First name: Allan

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 48 Flicker Dr

Address2:

City: Novato

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 94949

Country: United States

Email: AKY123@AIM.COM

Phone: 4158272115

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/22/2018 2:34:01 PM

First name: Amanda

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 3410 S Main St

Address2: Apt F4

City: Santa Ana

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 92707

Country: United States

Email: oc_vit3@yahoo.com

Phone: 7145958788

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 12:27:10 PM

First name: Andre

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: andre@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Andre Young
Tescier Rd
Muncy, PA 17756

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 1:26:04 PM

First name: Anna

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: youngannat@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Anna Young
23560 hwy 30
Clatskanie, OR 97016

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 10:30:35 AM

First name: Ayrol

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: ayrol.young@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Ayrol Young
15 Kitzbuhel Road
Parkton, MD 21120

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 1:06:36 AM

First name: Barbara

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: barbara.young731@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Barbara Young
48 South Lake Drive
Red Bank, NJ 07701

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 8:14:42 PM

First name: Carolyn

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 14 N San Francisco St

Address2:

City: Flagstaff

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 86001

Country: United States

Email: westofthemoonaz@aol.com

Phone: 9287740465

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/23/2018 10:25:42 PM

First name: Celeste

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 6460 Silkwood Way

Address2:

City: Citrus Heights

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 95621

Country: United States

Email: cyoung1@sbcglobal.net

Phone: 5106764001

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/26/2018 4:26:44 PM

First name: Cheryl

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 3531 Abilene St

Address2:

City: Dallas

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 75212

Country: United States

Email: cher7007@gmail.com

Phone: 4695100295

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 7:32:26 PM

First name: Colleen

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Colleen Young

177 Young Rd

Rayle, GA 30660

(706) 743-3570

littlemissrichva65@gmail.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/3/2018 5:41:05 PM

First name: Colleen

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: littlemissrichva65@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Colleen Young
177 YOUNG RD
Rayle, GA 30660

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/21/2018 7:13:02 AM

First name: Cynthia

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 2 Hillwood Dr

Address2:

City: Gibsonia

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 15044

Country: United States

Email: cynyoung@juno.com

Phone: 7244432159

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. THESE PRISTINE AREAS MUST BE KEPT INTACT. ONCE INVADED, WE CAN NEVER GO BACK!!! THE PEOPLE WANT THE ROADLESS RULE TO STAND!! The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/5/2018 6:03:33 AM

First name: DEBRA

Last name: YOUNG

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 5, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

DEBRA YOUNG

405 Pine St

Manchester, NH 03104-6106

(603) 624-6550

dyoung@manchesternh.gov

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/25/2018 5:48:25 AM

First name: Debra

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City: Manchester

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 03104

Country: United States

Email: dyoung@manchesternh.gov

Phone:

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 9:21:45 AM

First name: Dr.

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City: Madison

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 53706

Country: United States

Email: young@entomology.wisc.edu

Phone:

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/26/2018 8:38:14 AM

First name: Dr.

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City: Madison

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 53706

Country: United States

Email: young@entomology.wisc.edu

Phone:

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 8:08:23 AM

First name: Elizabeth

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: young5098@sbcglobal.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Young
9610 Roy Croft Ave
Helotes, TX 78023

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:54:21 AM

First name: Gail

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 5350 Sonoma Mountain Rd

Address2:

City: Santa Rosa

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 95404

Country: United States

Email: gaileva@earthlink.net

Phone: 7075668208

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:28:35 AM

First name: Gareth

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: garethjohnyoung@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Gareth Young
1176 Cimarron Court
Clarkston, GA 30021

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 8:08:42 AM

First name: Georgiann

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 4201 Bacon School Rd

Address2:

City: Saint Joseph

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 49085

Country: United States

Email: gusandfransfirst@hotmail.com

Phone: 2694291689

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 8/31/2018 7:02:30 AM

First name: Gordon

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: revgordonyoung@comcast.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a 17 million-acre diverse ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Gordon Young

3712 S Raphael CT Unit 4C

Unit 4C

Salt Lake City, UT 84119

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 2:39:08 PM

First name: Gordon

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 3712 Raphael Ct

Address2: Unit 4C

City: West Valley City

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 84119

Country: United States

Email: RevGordonYoung@comcast.net

Phone: 8019725306

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/15/2018 12:00:00 AM

First name: Jamie

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country: United States

Email:

Phone:

Comments:

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in North America where old-growth logging still occurs, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of Americas best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars that might otherwise be spent to subsidize money-losing timber sales.

The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly important in the Tongass, where logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

It is vital that the Federal Government disclose the economics of timber harvest on the Tongass, the cost of associated road-building, and the loss to taxpayers in the environmental analysis for this proposal. The federal Roadless Rule should remain in place in Alaska, and all current roadless areas in the state should remain protected.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 3:01:59 PM

First name: Jane

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Jane Young
85 High Falls Rd. Ext.
Catskill, NY 12414
(518) 678-9823
jyoung27@nyc.rr.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 10:15:21 AM

First name: Jane

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 85 High Falls Road Ext

Address2:

City: Catskill

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 12414

Country: United States

Email: jtyoung@mhcable.com

Phone: 5186789823

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 10:14:50 AM

First name: Jane

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 85 High Falls Road Ext

Address2:

City: Catskill

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 12414

Country: United States

Email: jtyoung@mhcable.com

Phone: 5186789823

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 11:52:08 AM

First name: Janet

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: crone061@myfairpoint.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Janet Young

7 Sunset Ln

Hancock, NH 03449

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:24:49 AM

First name: Jean

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: jeanyoung@optonline.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Jean Young
32 Harrison Dr
Larchmont, NY 10538

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 3:31:56 PM

First name: Jeffrey

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Young
863 Sherman Drive
Gettysburg, PA 17325
(717) 830-6137
antiquenuts_869@hotmail.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/6/2018 4:06:26 PM

First name: Karen

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 6, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Karen Young
10035 Tanglewood Court
Palos Park, IL 60464
(708) 448-3295
kareny1107@yahoo.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/5/2018 12:33:58 AM

First name: Kim

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do NO Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 5, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

America's public lands and national forests are the envy of the entire world, and they are also an incredible heritage ultimately owned by each and every American citizen. As a person that cares deeply about these lands and their environment I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest!!! This is completely unnecessary and absolutely unwanted by the VAST majority of American citizens!! Old-growth forests are almost all gone and what little we have left MUST be preserved for the sake of the ecosystems and all future generations. The Tongass contains some of the very last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its immense, incredible value lies in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat and it is completely essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska!! I STRONGLY URGE you to KEEP the federal Roadless Rule INTACT and KEEP current protections in place for the Tongass and ALL national forests in Alaska.

As an outdoor person I hunt and fish and I believe that the Roadless Rule is absolutely one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted, bar none!! Not only does it truly preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, which certainly deserves full protection, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing incredibly bad, money-losing timber sales and road construction. These sales (and the roads) often greatly degrade the land and the entire ecosystem due to the incredible destruction and disruption of the forests. After living in NW Montana for about 30 years, I am well aware of different types of logging practices and their aftermath. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is especially relevant in the Tongass, where unnecessary logging and road building absolutely threaten some of the very last, BEST habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs VASTLY exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies. THESE SUBSIDIES ARE CERTAINLY THE WRONG THING TO BE DOING WITH TAXPAYER DOLLARS, ALL THE WHILE DAMAGING THE ENVIRONMENT!! THERE IS NO REASON TO LOG THESE ROADLESS LANDS, NONE!!! PLEASE leave them as God created them!!

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is simply a horrible beginning. By carving out any exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar shameless attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.!! This would truly be the wrong thing to do and I believe you know and understand this fact. To leave the entire forest intact, and to leave all the roadless rules in place without change is absolutely the correct thing to do!! Thank you for your consideration in this crucial matter.

Sincerely,

Kim Young
1040 Big Tom Rd
Kingston Spgs, TN 37082
(615) 479-8234
kimsings3@yahoo.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 2:13:09 PM

First name: Kristin

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: kristinduffy@earthlink.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Kristin Young
8484 San Carlos Way
Buena Park, CA 90620

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 8/31/2018 6:57:35 PM

First name: Lois

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: loishyoung@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Lois Young
28 Champney St.
Groton, MA 01450

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:37:47 AM

First name: Lowell

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 5589 Meadow Ln

Address2:

City: Mariposa

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 95338

Country: United States

Email: mtnfolks@gmail.com

Phone: 2099662547

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:44:16 AM

First name: Lowell

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: mtnfolks@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Lowell Young
5589 Meadow Ln.
Mariposa, CA 95338

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 4:30:45 PM

First name: Marie

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: marieriverwalker@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Marie Young
pobox 147
New Paltz, NY 12561

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 4:11:31 PM

First name: Marie

Last name: young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 521 W 146th St

Address2:

City: New York

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 10031

Country: United States

Email: marieriverwalker@gmail.com

Phone: 8458831234

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/3/2018 12:54:43 PM

First name: Mk

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: mkyoung@surewest.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Mk Young
Yorkship Court
Elk Grove, CA 95758

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 8/31/2018 5:01:01 AM

First name: Mona

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: mona3737y@msn.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a 17 million-acre diverse ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Mona Young

24 Mahaiwe Street, Apt. 2

606 Sheffield Plain Road, Apt. D

Great Barrington, MA 01230

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 4:32:10 PM

First name: Oliver

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Oliver Young
210 W Packer Ave
Sayre, PA 18840-2032
oyinco@hotmail.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 5:05:04 PM

First name: Reeves

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: rcyoung4@nc.rr.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Reeves Young
5808 Williamsburg Way
Durham, NC 27713

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 3:32:03 PM

First name: Roberta

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Roberta Young
14 Crane Ave.
White Plains, NY 10603
(914) 946-1409
r1h1y@optonline.net

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 9:28:53 AM

First name: Sherri

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 1845B Barclay Hill Rd

Address2:

City: Beaver

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 15009

Country: United States

Email: shyou52@icloud.com

Phone: 7246010889

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 8/31/2018 7:41:36 AM

First name: Timothy

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: tyoung32311@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Timothy Young
102 Sherman Ave.
Staten Island,, NY 10301

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/5/2018 3:02:55 AM

First name: Virginia

Last name: Young

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 5, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Virginia Young
2205 Pamela Street
Titusville, FL 32796
(321) 225-8606
gingerly@cfl.rr.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 8:14:11 AM

First name: Robert

Last name: Youngblood

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: rbyoungblood@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Robert Youngblood
602 Ross Rd
Lexington, VA 24450

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:03:44 AM

First name: Taylor

Last name: Youngblood

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: taypfaff@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Taylor Youngblood
2209 Zach Scott St
Austin, TX 78723

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:22:42 AM

First name: Elisabeth

Last name: Youngclaus

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: eyoungclaus@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Youngclaus
2 GRACE CT APT 6C
Apt 6C
BROOKLYN, NY 11201

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/2/2018 11:23:40 AM

First name: Noah

Last name: Youngelson

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: Sohanmonk@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Noah Youngelson
2449 Walgrove Ave
Los Angeles, CA 90066

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 5:28:33 AM

First name: Kristina

Last name: Younger

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: key12061@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Kristina Younger
480 Pondview
Petersburg, NY 12138

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/4/2018 12:32:23 PM

First name: Lyn

Last name: Younger

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 4, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Lyn Younger
4831 Lyric Lane
San José, CA 95111
(408) 224-1949
ekcbsnan@yahoo.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 11:50:41 AM

First name: Lyn

Last name: Younger

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 4831 Lyric Ln

Address2:

City: San Jose

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 95111

Country: United States

Email: ekcbsnan@yahoo.com

Phone: 4082242949

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/16/2018 5:54:39 AM

First name: Melanie

Last name: Younger

Organization: For The Wild

Title: Co-Managing Director

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 1069 Gladstone Ave.

Address2:

City: Ottawa

State:

Province/Region: ON

Zip/Postal Code: K1Y 3G7

Country: Canada

Email: melanieyounger@hotmail.com

Phone: 6135816990

Comments:

To Whom it May Concern,

The Roadless Rule, one of the most important conservation laws in the United States, was the product of three years of deliberation, more than one million public comments, and a robust administrative review of options for managing and protecting the approximately 58.5 million acres of inventoried roadless areas within the National Forest System. USDA concluded inventoried roadless areas serve numerous important functions, including providing unparalleled recreational and business opportunities, drinking water sources for millions of Americans, and habitat important to the long-term survival of innumerable fish and wildlife populations. USDA also concluded that the Rule responded to serious environmental, human safety, and fiscal concerns relating to the $8.4 billion maintenance backlog on the existing forest road system.

The USDA's thoughtful and deliberate approach to the Roadless Rule has withstood decades of legal challenges and stands as a lasting contribution to conservation efforts in the United States.

The Tongass and the Chugach are incredible state and national resources that support Alaska's booming and profitable tourism, recreation and fishing industries. They play a vital role in capturing excess carbon from the atmosphere and mitigating some of the impact of global warming, among other massive environmental benefits. The wildlands of these forests are a treasured natural resource that should be valued and protected from the destruction of logging.

The State of Alaska's petition for a statewide exemption from the Rule, perpetuates stale, tired efforts by Roadless Rule opponents to mischaracterize the Rule's actual scope and effect. The petition ignores the fact that USDA narrowly tailored the Roadless Rule to limit only two activities in roadless areas, road construction/reconstruction and logging, because those activities pose the greatest likelihood of irretrievably altering and fragmenting roadless landscapes.

The petition also ignores the Rule's series of established exceptions that "honor existing law or address social or economic concerns." Most importantly, for example, the State of Alaska ignores the fact that the Roadless Rule already allows for road connections between communities and other state highway projects, access to mining claims under the General Mining Law of 1872, and logging incidental to otherwise permitted activities, including utility corridors and hydropower projects.

As the U.S. Forest Service itself noted, "[a]s of January 2018, 55 projects within roadless areas in Alaska have been submitted for Secretarial or Chief's review and all have been approved. . . . Under the current review process, most projects are approved by the Chief of the Forest Service within a month of submission."

The State of Alaska's decision to ignore all of the Roadless Rule's existing exemptions makes it clear that the real purpose of the petition is to allow logging in the roadless portions of the Tongass. The fact that the Tongass old-growth logging program is completely dependent on tens of millions of dollars in annual subsidies from U.S. taxpayers further eviscerates the petition's purported justification.

The Roadless Rule ensures that areas that are vital for Southeast Alaska's thriving tourism industry, and recreation remain off limits to logging. These sustainable industries are Alaska's future. They have long surpassed industrial-scale logging as the region's main economic drivers, and they depend on healthy watersheds and wildlands of the Tongass and the Chugach.

The Roadless Rule also protects areas of vital importance to Alaska Natives across the region. By ensuring clear-cut logging does not destroy these areas, the Rule protects fish and wildlife habitat for vital subsistence uses, customary and traditional cultural venues, and sacred spiritual sites.

Finally, the Roadless Rule saves the taxpayers enormous amounts of money. The USDA adopted the Roadless Rule, in large part, because the Forest Service had to stop building wasteful roads at taxpayer expense. In Alaska, the rationale is even more compelling given the cost of building and maintaining roads greatly exceeds the value of the timber, and requires unconscionable federal taxpayer subsidies.

For all of these reasons, an Alaskan statewide exemption from the Rule should be denied. I urge you to maintain the Roadless Rule and its vital protections for the National Forest System and the Tongass.

Sincerely,

Melanie Younger

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:59:11 AM

First name: Casey

Last name: Youngflesh

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: caseyyoungflesh@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Casey Youngflesh
7 Fraternity Lane
Stony Brook, NY 11790

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/12/2018 7:32:55 AM

First name: Jeanne

Last name: Younghaus

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: P O Box 1846

Address2:

City: Buena Vista

State: CO

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 81211

Country: United States

Email: Ted7cp@gmail.com

Phone: (719)395-3887

Comments:

Because the United States has so little intact natural native landscape, I strongly encourage the dept of Agriculture to keep intact the original 2001 Tongass Nat'l Forest Roadless Area Plan.

The world is rapidly losing its intact native landscapes, so it is even more important that the USA maintain what is left of our intact areas. Once gone or damaged, it will not come back. These intact areas when visited, bring a sense of peace and renewal to the person's visiting which is needed in a constantly increasing technological world.

Thank you for considering my comments

Jeanne Younghaus

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 8/31/2018 4:27:52 AM

First name: Barbara

Last name: Youngquist

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: e-youngquist@sbcglobal.net

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a 17 million-acre diverse ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Barbara Youngquist

9229 Harding

Evanston, IL 60203

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/8/2018 9:50:15 PM

First name: Noah

Last name: Youngs

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 2226 N 163rd St

Address2:

City: Omaha

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 68116

Country: United States

Email: noahyoungs@yahoo.com

Phone: 4027147570

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 3:27:31 PM

First name: anastasia

Last name: yovanopoulos

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 3718 24th St

Address2:

City: San Francisco

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 94110

Country: United States

Email: shashacooks@yahoo.com

Phone: 4158265886

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:32:51 AM

First name: Linda

Last name: Yow

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: RR 1 Box 1650

Address2:

City: Glenallen

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 63751

Country: United States

Email: jandlyow@gmail.com

Phone: 5732382051

Comments:

The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, endanger wildlife and their habitat, and threaten access to safe drinking water.

Rolling back the Roadless Rule would be a backward step, away from sustainable development. It would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and us taxpayers.

Please maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits. Timber can be harvested using helicopters as it has been in other parts of the United States, eating only some of the timber industrys profits.

Thank you for working to do what is right more than what is expedient. God bless you with wisdom and courage.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 6:33:47 AM

First name: Ray

Last name: Yow

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: rmyow@hotmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Ray Yow

5418 Borchers Dr

San Antonio, TX 78219

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 12:32:54 PM

First name: Michael

Last name: Yowell

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 1800 Smizer Mill Rd

Address2:

City: Fenton

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 63026

Country: United States

Email: mikeyowell@hotmail.com

Phone: 3143214321

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:12:19 AM

First name: Teresa

Last name: Yrastorza

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 2436 Bonar St

Address2:

City: Berkeley

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 94702

Country: United States

Email: rosewoodthree@yahoo.com

Phone: 5103843705

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/22/2018 10:33:31 AM

First name: Hweiju

Last name: Yu

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 1544 W 152nd St

Address2:

City: Gardena

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 90247

Country: United States

Email: yuhweiju@gmail.com

Phone: 8182213309

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 4:09:54 PM

First name: Shari

Last name: Yudenfreund-Sujka

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: sharisujka@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Shari Yudenfreund-Sujka
345 Cortland Ave
Winter Park, FL 32789

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/12/2018 8:17:52 PM

First name: Shari

Last name: Yudenfreund-Sujka

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: sharisujka@gmail.com

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Shari Yudenfreund-Sujka

345 Cortland Ave

Winter Park, FL 32789

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 11:11:50 AM

First name: George

Last name: Yuhasz

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 4 Wild Ivy Run

Address2:

City: Hendersonville

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 28739

Country: United States

Email: gyuhasz@hotmail.com

Phone: 5017671863

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/25/2018 7:12:22 PM

First name: Maki

Last name: Yuinada

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: PO Box 415

Address2:

City: Phoenicia

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 12464

Country: United States

Email: makiyuinada@gmail.com

Phone: 8456880000

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/26/2018 3:29:55 AM

First name: Trudy

Last name: Yukl

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 10129 Edmonton Ave

Address2:

City: Englewood

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 34224

Country: United States

Email: truy9@aol.com

Phone: 9414731400

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/5/2018 1:33:57 PM

First name: Mary

Last name: Yunker

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: action@wildearthguardians.org

Phone:

Comments:

Do Not Remove Roadless Protections From Tongass Roadless Areas (Oppose Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #53511)

Oct 5, 2018

Secretary Perdue

Dear Perdue,

I strongly object to your plans to reduce and remove protections from roadless areas on the Tongass National Forest. The Tongass contains some of the last remaining old-growth temperate rainforest in the world, and its value in providing clean water and fish and wildlife habitat is essential to the economic and ecological health of Southeast Alaska. I urge you to keep the federal Roadless Rule intact and current protections in place for national forests in Alaska.

The Roadless Rule is one of the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve some of America's best fish and wildlife habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars from subsidizing money-losing timber sales and road construction. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging and road building threaten some of the last, best habitat for treasured species such as salmon, grizzly bear and moose, and logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unconscionable taxpayer subsidies.

Further, this proposal to eliminate protections for Alaska's roadless areas is just the beginning. By carving out an exception for the Tongass you will open the floodgates to enable similar attacks on roadless areas, rivers, fish and wildlife throughout the U.S.

Sincerely,

Mary Yunker
422 S. Logsdon Pkwy
Radcliff, KY 40160
(270) 351-9492
mary_yunker@yahoo.com

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 10/15/2018 9:58:41 AM

First name: Katrina

Last name: Yurenka

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 7 Darcie Drive

Address2:

City: Jaffrey

State: NH

Province/Region: New Hampshire

Zip/Postal Code: 03452

Country: United States

Email: kyurenka@gmail.com

Phone: 6035325983

Comments:

We urge you to continue the Roadless Rule protection of our old-growth forest in Southeast Alaska.

The Roadless Rule protects 9.3 million acres of breathtaking, undeveloped roadless land in the Tongass. If the Trump administration moves forward with its plan to dismantle the Roadless Rule in the Tongass, it will endanger much of the old-growth temperate rainforest remaining on Earth.

It will also destroy the only habitat the the rare Alexander Archipelago wolves have. Despite this, Alaska Department of Fish and Game will allow hunters to hunt and trap 20% of the Alexander Archipelago wolves on Prince of Wales Island while U.S. Department of Agriculture is working hard to undermine safeguards for the Tongass's centuries-old trees - the only home for these wolves and their prey. The Trump administration has just launched a plan that remove Roadless Rule protections for the Tongass National Forest in Southeast Alaska. This plan puts all our forests at risk. Submit a comment to the U.S. Forest Service urging continued Roadless Rule protection of our old-growth forest in Southeast Alaska.

The trump administration has launched a plan to remove the Roadless Rule protections for the Tongass National Forest.

It will also destroy the only habitat the the rare Alexander Archipelago wolves have. Despite this, Alaska Department of Fish and Game will allow hunters to hunt and trap 20% of the Alexander Archipelago wolves on Prince of Wales Island.

All the while, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is working hard to undermine safeguards for the Tongass's centuries-old trees - the only home for these wolves and their prey.

This plan puts all of our forests at risk.

We urge you to continue the Roadless Rule protection of our old-growth forest in Southeast Alaska.

The Roadless Rule protects 9.3 million acres of breathtaking, undeveloped roadless land in the Tongass. If the Trump administration moves forward with its plan to dismantle the Roadless Rule in the Tongass, it will endanger much of the old-growth temperate rainforest remaining on Earth.

It will also destroy the only habitat the the rare Alexander Archipelago wolves have. Despite this, Alaska Department of Fish and Game will allow hunters to hunt and trap 20% of the Alexander Archipelago wolves on Prince of Wales Island while U.S. Department of Agriculture is working hard to undermine safeguards for the Tongass's centuries-old trees - the only home for these wolves and their prey.

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/1/2018 7:20:50 PM

First name: Glenn

Last name: Yutzy

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1:

Address2:

City:

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code:

Country:

Email: glenn.yutzy@mcdowell.k12.nc.us

Phone:

Comments:

Don't Pave Over Tongass

Dear U.S. Forest Service Interim Chief Vicki Christiansen,

I am writing to urge the U.S. Forest Service not to exempt any portion of the Tongass National Forest from the Roadless Rule.

Since 2001, the Roadless Area Conservation Rule has kept loggers and other destructive developers from cutting down and paving over forests around the country. The Tongass deserves this protection in its entirety.

The Tongass National Forest is a diverse, 17 million acre ecosystem -- filled with thriving salmon populations, tens of thousands of grizzly bears and the world's largest grouping of bald eagles. The Tongass is a truly precious wild place -- and we don't have many of these untouched places left on the planet. We shouldn't make it vulnerable to destructive development.

Sincerely,

Glenn Yutzy
346 Collins LN
Nebo, NC 28761

Date submitted (Alaskan Standard Time): 9/20/2018 7:27:38 AM

First name: Fallandy

Last name: Yvette

Organization:

Title:

Official Representative/Member Indicator:

Address1: 2928 Bardy Rd

Address2:

City: Santa Rosa

State:

Province/Region:

Zip/Postal Code: 95404

Country: United States

Email: ymf@sonic.net

Phone: 7075469666

Comments:

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was adopted with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including the Tongass National Forest. Rolling back the Roadless Rule in Alaska would ignore overwhelming public support, put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, and threaten access to safe drinking water. It would be a step away from sustainable development and would run counter to the interests of Alaskans and taxpayers. I urge the Forest Service to maintain the Roadless Rule in Alaska and put the public interest above timber industry profits.

Thank you for considering my comments.