Subject: RE: NOI for public comment/public meetings

Good morning,

Beginning with a meeting this evening in Juneau (Elizabeth Peratrovich Hall, 5:30 – 8:00 pm), the Forest Service is holding a series of Alaska Roadless rulemaking public meetings across Southeast Alaska, in Anchorage, and in Washington, DC. Since the publication of the Notice of Intent on August 30, additional meetings have been added in Tenakee Springs, Gustavus, and a second meeting in Juneau. I have attached the full schedule which can also be found online at: <https://www.fs.usda.gov/roadmain/roadless/alaskaroadlessrule>. In addition to full schedule of events, I have access to a flyer for each Southeast Alaska community which I'd be happy to share with you if you would find it useful.

Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

Subject: NOI for public comment/public meetings

Hi all,

I'm writing to let you know that tomorrow the Forest Service will be announcing the beginning of the 45-day public comment period on the Alaska Roadless Rule. The Notice of Intent is online in the reading room today: <https://www.federalregister.gov/documents/2018/08/30/2018-18937/roadless-area-conservation-national-forest-system-lands-in-alaska>

As part of the comment period, we'll be hosting public meetings in Juneau, Ketchikan, Hoonah, Craig, Angoon, Point Baker/Point Protection, Wrangell, Sitka, Petersburg, Yakutat, Kake, and Anchorage between Sept. 13 and Sept. 26. We also intend to host a meeting in Washington, DC in the near future.

Below is a draft news release – we are still waiting to post the public meeting schedule to finalize the news release. We intend to release it at 10am AKDT tomorrow, and respectfully ask you to embargo this draft until that time.

Kind regards,

Laurie

Forest Service seeks comment, announces public meetings on Alaska Roadless Rule

JUNEAU – The USDA Forest Service is seeking public comments and will host public information meetings as it prepares to develop a durable Alaska Roadless Rule to further Alaska’s economic development and other needs, while also conserving roadless areas for future generations.

Members of the public have until Oct. 15, 2018 to comment on the Notice of Intent to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement. Instructions about how to comment are included in the online notice, which is posted here:

<https://www.federalregister.gov/documents/2018/08/30/2018-18937/roadless-area-conservation-national-forest-system-lands-in-alaska>

The Forest Service plans to host informational public meetings in Alaska and Washington D.C. in late September and early October. The full list of meetings, with dates, times and locations can be accessed here: WAITING FOR LINK

The State of Alaska, as a cooperating agency, will be hosting separate meetings to engage with the public.

“We are coordinating with the State of Alaska to develop an Alaska Roadless Rule that is responsive to the communities, businesses, and people who rely on the Tongass National Forest,” said Tongass Supervisor Earl Stewart. “By working together, we can ensure that this rule helps provide more economic opportunity for Alaskans while sustaining the health, diversity and productivity of the Tongass National Forest.”

On June 1, 2018, the Secretary of Agriculture committed the Forest Service to develop a state-specific rule that establishes management direction for roadless area conservation within the Tongass National Forest. In conducting the rulemaking process, USDA is responding to the State of Alaska’s petition requesting an exemption of the Tongass National Forest from the current standing national 2001 Roadless Rule.

An Alaska Roadless Rule would replace the 2001 Roadless Rule, which prohibits with some exception road construction, road reconstruction, and timber harvesting on certain National Forest System lands across the country.
